

Scale-Out Architecture

With the scale-out architecture, the workload is split between back-end Gateways that handle device data and front-end Gateways that handle client applications. This architecture scales out easily without overloading any single Gateway.

